

PRESS RELEASE – FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

ELEMENT BECOMES A SILVER SPONSOR OF PPXXI

Organizers of PPXXI report that Element Materials Technology (Element) is now a silver sponsor of the conference and exhibition hosted in Lake Buena Vista, Florida (Walt Disney World) on September 25 – 27, 2023.

Element is a global provider of testing, inspection, and certification (TIC) on a wide range of products, materials, processes and services for a diverse set of end markets. Headquartered in London, their worldwide network includes over 200 laboratories with capabilities spanning hydrostatic test stations; chlorine resistance testing rigs; high flow circulation loop testing and crack propagation and where expertise covers European and North American standards such as CEN, ISO and ASTM.

Sarah Patterson, PPXXI Organizing Committee Chair, remarks: “We are proud and pleased to welcome Element as a silver sponsor of PPXXI. Their expertise and experience, spanning multiple materials, continue to prove essential in the technical world of plastic pipe systems. Our industry is one of ceaseless innovation in which product performance and durability are closely measured and qualified. By providing independent test data for product classification and evaluation throughout the world, Element is enhancing the reputational benefits of plastic pipe systems.”

“Element can trace its industrial origins for plastic pipes testing back to 1927,” Shagan Dhillon, Business Development Manager notes. “More recently, Element became a signatory to the United Nations Global Compact (UNGC), the world's largest corporate sustainability initiative. Furthermore, the company has made important strides in its environment, social and governance (ESG) efforts, which have led to its recognition as the highest rated firm in the TIC industry by Sustainalytics.”

Organizers of PPXXI also announce that reservations for space in their Exhibition are now open and that exhibitors can directly select their booth from the exhibition map posted to the PPXXI web page: <https://ppxxi.com/>.

Conference sponsors now include:

- Gold: battenfeld-cincinnati
- Silver: Element Materials Technology
- Gala Dinner: The European Plastic Pipe and Fittings Association
- iPad: PE100+ Association; PVC4Pipes
- Lunch Sponsor: Tecnomatic
